Lifelong Learning in Action - Norman Longworth 2003-12-16 Since the concept of lifelong learning came to prominence much excellent work has been undertaken but, as Professor Longworth’s new book shows, major change in some areas is still needed if the concept of learning from cradle to grave is to become a true reality. Using his unique vantage point from consulting with schools, universities, local, governmental and global authorities, Professor Longworth brings the development of lifelong learning bang up to date with a complete survey of the principles of lifelong learning including examples from around the world and crucial information on the impact of lifelong learning on 21st century schools.

Making Lifelong Learning Work - Norman, Vice President, World Initiative on Lifelong Learning 2019-01-04 This text outlines the future roles of business, industry, and higher education. Using examples of learning communities that are adapting for the future, the author describes the conditions which lifelong learning can accelerate as an agent for change.

Creativity, Wisdom, and Trusteeship - Anna Craft 2007-12-13 An international panel of distinguished experts explores the balance between creativity and wise action, and calls for educators to nurture “wise creativity” in their students.

University and Corporate Innovations in Lifelong Learning - Charles Wankel 2008-04-01 This volume covers cutting edge theory and cases in lifelong learning both in higher and corporate educational settings. It includes studies of both prototypical inter-disciplinary education programs and regional universities. Analysis of the experience of innovative efforts to provide management education transcending normal degree and development activities is provided. Partnering of corporate universities with traditional ones is discussed as a means of helping 21st century firms to develop management know-how to fit changing needs and opportunities. Executive education programs are presented as laboratories in which curriculum innovations integrating adult learning theory with professional development are provided. The way executive education changes in response to the changing core of executive programs can be described. One frame-breaking approach described is that of arts-based management learning as an expressive means to generate innovative and stimulating understanding across the board. Special attention is given to the capacity of other major educational institutions to support the capacity of the corporate sector to develop projects and top line firms. How the capacity for creative lifelong learning can be developed in undergraduates through embedded assessments is reported. A chapter reports on the efforts to support lifelong learning through management and learning its provision to participants of a toolkit of ideas, concepts, models and strategies that can be used for purposeful learning.

Raising Creative Thinkers - Michelle Kenefick 2017-05-31 Become the kind of educator today’s brighter than ever kids need for thriving in the future. This book will drive educators to proactively incorporate strategies that will promote different learning mindsets, expand children’s horizons, and enable those who are drawn to innovation into language arts lessons to ignite meaningful learning environments. In her unique conversational tone Michelle Kenefick outlines the 3’s: These 3 are core practices for facilitating children’s and youth’s creativity. Explore, Express, Enamor, Elevate and Express. With those principles in mind your path is set for directing children into high thinking and 21st century skills. Need help meeting the challenges of raising creative thinkers? Michelle’s heartwarming practices will connect you with the creative facilitator hidden inside you. The appendix offers useful lessons plans for facilitating children with issues such as anxiety and emotional regulation. It is a great resource for anyone working with young children, and every teacher should teach. It’s learning how to learn. The theory of eight multiple intelligences (linguistic, logical-mathematical, visual-spatial, kinesthetic, musical, interpersonal, intrapersonal, and naturalist) developed by Howard Gardner at Harvard University provides a foundation for the six-step MASTER-Mind system to facilitate learning (an acronym for Mind, Acquire, Search, Trigger, Exhibit, and Review), and is enhanced by the latest findings on the value of emotion and memory on the process of learning. Combined with motivational stories of success applying these principles, and putting forth a clear vision of how the United States can dramatically improve the education system to remain competitive in the next century. Acculturated Learning into the 21st Century is a dynamic tool for self-improvement by individuals as diverse as schoolchildren and corporate executives.

Student-Driven Learning Strategies for the 21st Century Classroom - Ali Asghari 2016-11-02 In this volume, creative learning is redefined as a learning environment in which students are engaged in learning processes as they are taught, not as they are told. In this environment, students are actively involved in planning, pacing, and content delivery. They are encouraged to take responsibility for their own learning, and to work towards a common goal. This book provides a comprehensive overview of the principles of lifelong learning including examples from around the world and crucial information on the impact of lifelong learning on 21st century schools.

Accelerated Learning into the 21st Century - Colin Rose 2011-11-02 We live in an era when the unprecedented speed of change makes the only certainty is uncertainty; you can't predict what skills will be useful in ten years time; in most professions knowledge is doubling every two or three years; and no job is forever--so being employable means being flexible and retraining regularly. Accelerated Learning into the 21st Century contains a simple but proven plan that delivers the one key secret that will make you employable and valuable in the future. This book offers a step-by-step plan that will make you employable in the future. The book provides a step-by-step plan that will teach you how to convert your information into usable intelligence. The book is packed with paintings, drawings, poems, and stories-but is also packed with practical advice and strategies.

and innovation, but while the development of creativity is embedded in the English National Curriculum and in workplace training, the higher education sector has yet to fully recognize its importance. This book highlights how pressures such as quality assurance, peer review systems, demands for greater efficiency and increased research output are effectively discouraging innovation and creativity in higher education. It makes a bold case for the integration of creativity in higher education, drawing together contributors and research from around the world and explores valuable lessons learnt from those working in schools and professional organisations. Offering a wealth of advice on how to foster creativity on an individual and an institutional level, this book encourages lecturers to engage with the ideas and practice involved in helping students to be creative in all areas of their study.
